We sponsor hikes and nature programs for families like this walk at the glacial kettle on our Servoss and Mather property.

The Hamden Land Conservation Trust

Since 1969, the Hamden Land Conservation Trust has worked to protect open space in the town of Hamden and to educate the public about preserving habitats, wildlife and biodiversity. Today, we are caretakers of a wide variety of open space properties throughout town. We also host hikes, family walks, nature programs and workshops, and other educational events. Our Wild Yards program highlights the yards and gardens of Hamden residents who have used their yards and gardens to improve habitat for birds, insect pollinators and other wildlife.

Your annual membership contribution to the HLCT helps to make Hamden a better community to live in by connecting people to the land and preserving places where people can appreciate nature, as well as protecting the land and woods that purify our streams and reservoirs. Find out more about us at www.hlct.org.

Count me in! I want to join the Hamden Land Conservation Trust and help protect open space in Hamden. Please accept my tax-deductible, annual membership contribution.
